

Problem statement a) A rectangle with length  $L$  and width  $W$  is cut into four smaller rectangles by two lines which are parallel to the sides. Find the minimum value of the sum of the squares of the areas of the smaller rectangles.

b) Show that the maximum of the sums of the squares of the areas occurs when the cutting lines correspond to sides of the rectangle (so that there is only one rectangle).