

Problem statement Suppose that you draw a $2'' \times 2''$ square, then join the midpoints of its sides to make another square, then join the midpoints of that square's sides to form another square, etc. Will the total length of the figure you are drawing be finite?

